Your personal data – what is it?

Personal data relates to a living individual who can be identified from that data. Identification can be by the information alone or in conjunction with any other information in the data controller's possession or likely to come into such possession. The processing of personal data is governed by the General Data Protection Regulation (the GDPR). Under the terms of the GDPR, FBHP is the data controller for personal data held to manage the membership and operations of this organisation.

How do we process your personal data?

FBHP complies with its obligations under the GDPR by keeping personal data up to date; by storing and destroying it securely; by not collecting or retaining excessive amounts of data; by protecting personal data from loss, misuse, unauthorised access and disclosure and by ensuring that appropriate technical measures are in place to protect personal data.

What personal data do we use, and why?

Personal data collected from members may consist of name; postal address; email address; telephone number(s); the number of persons per household and their identities; joining dates; bank account details (if given); and records (and the absence of records as the case may be) of subscriptions, donations and Gift Aid declarations.

The uses that may be made of the data are:

- To record your membership, and to maintain membership records
- To contact you about the status of your membership
- To contact you about the activities of FBHP, including appeals for funding, announcements about our activities and park matters
- To send you your Newsletter (by post, hand delivery or email) and Membership Card
- To manage the training, welfare and operational rota for FBHP volunteers at the Information Point in Bushy Park
- To comply with obligations of disclosure that may arise under Clause 7.4 of the Constitution of FBHP
- To enable FBHP to submit proper information as required by HMRC for Gift Aid purposes
- To facilitate the keeping of accurate accounting records and audit

- To disclose to any person or body (e.g The Charity Commission; HMRC; a Court of Law) having the right by law to require production of the information

What is the legal basis for processing your personal data?

FBHP is a members' organisation. Personal data about members is held with the consent of the member supplying that data, which is given for the purposes of becoming a member and taking part in the activities of the association. Members consent to FBHP processing the data in connection with, and for the purposes of, the management and operation of the organisation, including volunteers, in accordance with the Constitution, and to fulfil FBHP's obligations to members.

Members have a right to complain to the ICO (Information Commissioner's Office) if they think there is a problem with the way their data is handled that cannot be resolved by reference to FBHP.

Who else has access to your data?

No other organisation or individual outside FBHP has access to personal data which we hold. The Friends of Bushy and Home Parks promise never to sell or share your data with any third party, nor use that data for any other purpose than set out in this policy document.

Where is your data stored?

The data is held in a membership database, in email archives and in contact management systems. Access to these systems is password-protected and confined to a small number of specified officers of FBHP (Chair, Treasurer, Membership Secretary, Volunteer Coordinator, Newsletter Distribution Manager). Original membership application/renewal forms, Gift Aid Declarations and other documents which may contain personal data are securely held by one or more of the same people.

FBHP policy is that archived data will be kept for at least six years after the date of acquisition. In practical terms, the data is held for the minimum period required for workable administration.

How to view your data or ask for it to be removed

- The right to rectification;
- The right to erasure;
